DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-10 are presented for examination.
2. The rejection to claims 1-10 under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Watanabe et al. (U.S. Pat. 6,853,881) is maintained.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

4. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Watanabe et al. (U.S. Pat. 6,853,881).

As per claims 1-10, Watanabe et al. teaches a robot system having a teaching device for teaching a robot of positions for performing an operation on an object (see fig. 1), comprising:

storage means storing positional relation between of the robot and the object (see figs. 1 and 2);

first displaying means (see fig. 1) for displaying a model of the robot on a display device movable around the object with an operator (see fig. 3, element 109);

specifying means for the operator to specify a direction of a present position of the operator with respect to the robot, referring to the model of the robot displayed on the display device (see fig. 3);

second displaying means (see fig. 1) for displaying a three-dimensional model of the object as viewed from the specified direction of the operator on the display device (see fig. 4, element 311, wherein the image being taken as 3D); and manual operation means for the operator to operate the robot for designating positions for performing the operation on the object (the use of manual operation has been acknowledge by Watanabe 881' "Wu et al., F3 Robot technical manual, 2002, Internet, pp. 1-18."), referring to the three-dimensional model of the object displayed on the display device (see fig. 1-5 and the entire document); a teaching modification device for modifying positions of taught points or orientations at the taught points for performing an operation on an object by a robot (see col. 2, lines 32-36, col. 6, lines 22-29 and col. 5, lines 39-49).

Response to Arguments

5. As to the reference not teaching "not teaching storing a positional relation between a robot and an object to be operated on by the robot" (see fig. 2, elements 1-3 and col. 1, particularly "animation on the basis of operating position information of a robot send from the robot controller...), note that each of these elements contains storage capacity.

As to the reference not teaching "three-dimensional models of the robot and the tool are prepared using graphical data stored in the storage device of the robot controller 1" (see col. 1 of Watanabe et al.), note that the pendant contains storage capacity for displaying 2D/3D animation/graphics/model etc.

As to the reference not teaching ""specifying a direction of a present position of the operator with respect to the robot..." (etc.), again fig. 3 of Watanabe et al. has been shown to teach direction of present position through element 106 after a series of subroutine.

With respect to Wu et al., "In response to this requirement, the title has provided, citation and copy of the publication that is a source used for the description of the prior art in the disclosure; that become integrated part of the 881' Patent. Wherein, each publication cited in 881', provides a concise explanation of that publication's contribution to the description of the prior art. That is, Wu et al."

6. Applicant's arguments filed 5/14/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
